Pride and Prejudice — Jane Austen, 1813

It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife.

However little known the feelings or views of such a man may be on his first entering a neighbourhood, this truth is so well fixed in the minds of the surrounding families, that he is considered as the rightful property of some one or other of their daughters.

A Tale of Two Cities — Charles Dickens, 1859

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair.

Sonnet 18 — William Shakespeare, 1609

Shall I compare thee to a summer's day? Thou art more lovely and more temperate

So long as men can breathe or eyes can see, So long lives this, and this gives life to thee.

Moby Dick — Herman Melville, 1851

Call me Ishmael. Some years ago, never mind how long precisely having little or no money in my purse, and nothing particular to interest me on shore, I thought I would sail about a little and see the watery part of the world.
